

Knowing What you Want Ron Lynch Chalice 7-30-93

Do you believe in conversation?
or do you wait too long?
are you dissatisfied with your life's station?
just trying to be strong in the early morning hours when you wander around are you reaching out for firmer ground?

CHORUS:
Knowing what you want is so damned hard when you turn your back in the middle of the night Knowing what you need is harder yet when you don't say a word before you turn out the light

Do you answer with a definite maybe?
or do you just shrug it away?
are you curious, like a new little baby or pat, and willing to stay when you're thinking of something do you keep it inside
by not talking about it, are you helping it hide

CSECT:
How the hell can I know if you don't?
How the hell can I even guess?
It seems like some of the things you do are meant to be some kind of test

Do your plans often go awry not what you had in mind and it leaves you wanting to cry
do you have so little time?
Does it seem that sometimes you don't know yourself and you're unwilling to ask for a little help
